

orange
 bright white
 twinkles

gauge
 challenge

behind

(recorded Nov. 5, '92)
 14-day period;
 took place ca. end Jan., '76
 + early Feb.

In the early evenings, I stood on the grass near the rickshaws, and

grass

rickshaws

saw a white, ^{very} bright light, sometimes saw red, sometimes w. orange [⊕] and having borrowed binoculars for the purpose, looked closely at it - and

white,
 red,
 orange,
 yellow

white
 red, black

1/2 - 1 hr. or more

saw that in the midst of the brightness was a funnel ("antenna") which blinked in differing patterns in an ingenious non-repetitive way. As if there were at least 4 boxes or circles which could be turned on (red) or off (black) on both st. + lt. sides in this funnel, creating patterns.