Pieces and Sounds crunch

(The only reason I include this dream is because the shape reminds me so much of that from the July 31, 1982 dream, "UFO close-up, to a crowd". Still, there's no internal explicit evidence that these two are actually related.)

I had figured out an example of the 6 geometrical shapes, each with a different colour. All but the medium-heavy pedestal were made of smooth, somewhat shiny, homogenous, looking-like plastic material.

I sat looking at the separate pieces and wondered if they could be joined...there was a brief moment with no picture...and in a fraction of a second the loudly splashing, crunching, echoing sound came from the upper left direction, and from about 1/3 of its beginning onwards, the combined assembled structure appeared. The sound woke me up.

It was an almost simultaneous ugly sound composite made of 5-6 consecutive parts, which corresponded to the 6 layers of the object. A softly golden yellow "aware energy" was glowing out of an open oval from within the conglomerate structure. It will have 9-10 layers in all, and i've so far discovered and fit together the top 6.
