

17.10.23 a fraction of a second simultaneously an ugly sound composite of 5-6 consecutive parts which correspond to the 6 layers of the object (it will have 9-10 layers in all, and i've discovered + fit together the top 6 so far)

- yellowish green

- light green body

with an oval visual (vaguely outlined) soft golden yellow glowing area from within

- porous tannish white pedestal

- forest green base (for now, with 3-4 deeper layers to come underneath them)

I had figured out an example of the 6 geometrical shapes, each w. a different colour. All but the medium-heavy pedestal were made of smooth, somewhat shiny, homogeneous, plastic-like material, and aware energy was glowing from within the conglomerate structure.

I was looking at the separate pieces and wondered if they could be joined... there was a moment with no picture... then the loud splashing, crunching, echoing sound came in the left upper direction, and from about 1/3 of its beginning onwards, the assembled structure appeared.
The sound woke me up.
